

The Leibniz Centre for Tropical Marine Research (www.leibniz-zmt.de) in Bremen is an interdisciplinary institute focussing on the functions and services of coastal ecosystems in the tropics. ZMT is a member of the Leibniz Association, which is supported by the German Federal and State Governments. Through its research, ZMT contributes to developing science-based strategies for the sustainable use and management of tropical coastal systems.

The ZMT has a position available for a

Student helper in Development and Knowledge Sociology

(Reference number: 49 – Development and Knowledge Sociology)

Description: The Research Group 'Development and Knowledge Sociology' at the Leibniz-Center for Tropical Marine Research in Bremen seeks a student assistant with a background possibly in sociology, anthropology or human geography. The student assistant will support the research group, headed by Prof. Dr. Anna-Katharina Hornidge, in all supporting tasks related to building up the newly founded research area of 'Development and Knowledge Sociology' at ZMT.

Core tasks of the position:

Support the head of the research group, Prof. Anna-Katharina Hornidge and a Post-Doc researcher with organisational, administrative as well as research and teaching related preparatory tasks

- Support in the organisation of events, lecture series, workshops
- Maintaining a literature and address data base
- Compilation of literature and possibly literature reviews for selected topics
- Possibly editing of publications, articles etc
- General office work

Background of applicants:

- Background: sociology, political science, geography, anthropology, etc is desirable but we also encourage other disciplines to apply
- Good speaking and writing skills in English; German is an asset
- Proficiency in computer programs, Word, Excel, PowerPoint etc.
- Knowledge in Indesign, Typo3 and Adobe Pro is an additional asset
- Effective time management
- Creativity and ability to work self-dependent and in a dedicated team environment

Details of Position:

- around 10 hrs/week

For additional information, please contact:

Ms. Bianca Hurlemann, E-Mail: bianca.hurlemann@leibniz-zmt.de

Submission of Application: If you are interested in applying for this position, please send your application letter including a short CV and the reference number "49" via E-Mail as a single pdf file to Ms. Lena Oehlmann (bewerbung@leibniz-zmt.de). Deadline for applications is July 15, 2017 or until a qualified candidate is identified. Only short-listed candidates will be notified.

Leibniz Centre for Tropical Marine Research, Fahrenheitstraße 6, D - 28359 Bremen.