Summary

Marion Glaser leads the Social-Ecological Systems Analysis Group at the ZMT, Bremen and teaches at various universities but mainly at Bremen University. After studies at the University of Cologne (Germany) and the London School of Economics and Political Science (U.K.), she obtained a PhD in rural sociology at Bath University (U.K.) and professorial qualifications at the Humboldt University, Berlin and the University of Bremen. After engagements in development cooperation and research on self-help housing, agriculture and irrigation management, forestry, flood control and coastal management in Colombia, Bangladesh and Belize, she coordinated the social science research of the Brazilian-German Mangrove Dynamics and Management (MADAM) project (1996-2005), the “Governance and Management of Coastal Social-Ecological Systems” Project in the Science for the Protection of Indonesian Coastal Ecosystems (SPICE) project and two subsequent projects (2007-2016) in Indonesia. MG now co-leads the global NoCRISES project with case studies in Bangladesh and Brazil. She was twice elected on the Scientific Steering Committee of the Land-Ocean Interaction in the Coastal Zone project (now Future Earth Coast), Executive Board member and also acted as its Interim CEO (2012-2013). She was then Vice Chair of the Integrated Marine Biosphere (IMBeR) Scientific Steering Committee (2016-2021) and has been Vice President of the German Society for Human Ecology (DGH) since 2012. MG’s research analyses the integrated dynamics and the governance and management of coastal and marine social-ecological systems focusing on nature-dependent livelihoods and equity and the potentials of network analysis and other transdisciplinary methods in contextualized, multi-site and cross-scale sustainability analysis.

Education and Academic Titles

Umhabilitation (second professorial qualification) in Social Ecology of Coastal Areas at the Institute of Geography, University of Bremen, Germany (2013)

- Habilitation (professorial qualification) in Rural Sociology Faculty of Agriculture and Horticulture, Humboldt University Berlin, Germany (2006)
- PhD (Rural Sociology) from the University of Bath, UK supervisor Geof Wood, with scholarship by Bath University (1989)
- Master of Science in Development Studies, (Economics/Sociology/Political Science) University of Bath, UK (1983)
- Zwischenprüfung (BA equivalent) Economics and Political Science, University of Cologne, Germany (1981)
- International Baccalaureate, United World College of the Atlantic, South Wales, UK, with scholarship from the German National Academic Foundation (1978)

Current Functions

- Leader of Social-Ecological Systems Analysis (SES) Group, Leibniz Center for Tropical Marine Research (ZMT), Bremen, Germany
- PD (professorial level) at the Humboldt University (Berlin) Faculty of Agriculture and Horticulture, (since 2006) and at the University of Bremen, (FB8, Geography) since 2013
- Vice-President of German Society for Human Ecology (DGH)
- Editorial Board member of the Journals Ecology and Society, Sustainability and Journal of Indonesian Coral Reefs

Research Interests

My research develops and interfaces social science knowledge to support the development of sustainable human-nature relations. Drawing on long-term academic and participatory action research into regional development in Bangladesh, Belize, Brazil and Indonesia I am now also actively engaged in the creation of international knowledge and science-policy networks that respond to the “grand challenges” of global sustainability research. My current work explores the potential for transdisciplinary site- and ecosystem-specific collaborations that elucidate social-ecological connectivity and advance cross-scale multi-level analysis of the social drivers of social-ecological change. I am particularly interested in linking across coastal and marine regions where the challenges of sustainable human-nature relations are particularly pronounced.

Professional Development
---------------------------------	--

2000 to date	Leader of the Social-Ecological Systems work group at ZMT. With field research in Brazil, Indonesia, Bangladesh, Belize and other tropical coastal locations.
2012-2017	Coordinator of MABICO and MACORAS social science subprojects under SPICE III
2011-2013	LOICZ Chief Executive Officer
2006–2010	Coordinator of the project Coastal and Disaster Management for Improving the Preparedness for Natural Extreme Events in Indonesia and of Research Cluster 6 The Governance and Management of Indonesian Coastal Social-ecological Systems in the Science for the Protection of Indonesian Coastal Ecosystems (SPICE) Programme leading a team of 20-30 researchers
1996-2005	Social Science Coordinator of the Mangrove Dynamics and Management (MADAM) Programme in North Brazil, leading a research team of 12-20 people
1992-1995	Consultant for the Overseas Development Administration (ODA) to the Ministry of Economic Development and the Forest Department, Government of Belize
1992	Lecturer in Development Studies and Sociology of Development at the University of Bath, Great Britain
1991	Consultant / Teamleader in the Deep Tubewell II (DTW II) Project , (Bangladesh) IBRD/ODA (Bangladesh, USA): Development of National Minor Irrigation Development Project (NMIDP) OXFAM International (Great Britain/Bangladesh): Evaluation of the OXFAM Bangladesh Programme
1989-90	Sociologist for the German Technical Cooperation Agency (GTZ) in Tangail Agricultural Development Project (TADP) Bangladesh
1988-89	Socio-economist, Overseas Development Institute, London

Teaching
-----------------	--

2015-2019	Sustainable Development: Vision or Illusion?" (Annual week-long block course, University of Bremen)
2017-2019	Network Analysis in Environmental governance (Block Seminar, University of Bremen)
2014	“Development and the Natural Environment: Trade-offs and tensions between social and ecological sustainability” (with Annette Breckwolddt) for Fachbereich 2, University of Bremen.

1999-2012	two annual courses (2 SWS) in the International Studies in Tropical Ecology (ISATEC) Master course at the University of Bremen, Germany 1. Social Science Research Methods for Social-Ecological Analysis & 2. Interdisciplinarity between the Natural and Social Sciences in Coastal Management
2007-2009	taught an annual two-week intensive course on social-ecological systems analysis and social science field methods in coral reef environments in Hasanuddin University, Indonesia
2009-2010	taught two 10-day summer schools on social-ecological systems analysis for post-graduates and young lecturers at the Centre for Coral Reef Research (CCRR), Hasanuddin University, South Sulawesi, Indonesia.
1999–2003	Taught an annual two-week intensive course on The participatory management of coastal resources at the Universidade Federal do Pará, Brazil (in Portuguese)
1998	Lectured on an international course on Integrated Coastal Zone Management at the University of Bremen
1992	taught for my doctoral supervisor Prof. Dr. Geof Wood at the University of Bath, U.K. during his one-year sabbatical leave. Courses taught: 1. General Sociology (to undergraduates) 2. Sociology of Development (to postgraduates)
