

CURRICULUM VITAE
BRECKWOLDT, Annette

Leibniz Centre for Tropical Marine Research (ZMT)
E: annette.breckwoldt@leibniz-zmt.de

Annette Breckwoldt is an interdisciplinary marine scientist with socio-ecological research interests: marine social sciences, science-stakeholder interactions, participatory research methods, integrated coastal management, Locally Managed Marine Areas (LMMAs), small-scale and subsistence fisheries, local realities of resource use, environment and development of small island states, inter- and transdisciplinarity in sustainability transformation.

Professional background:

- 2018–present Postdoctoral scientist, Social-Ecological Systems (SES) Analysis, Department of Social Sciences, Leibniz Center for Tropical Marine Research (ZMT), Bremen
- 2009–present Lecturer, University of Bremen, MSc ISATEC, Bremen
- 2017–2018 Postdoctoral scientist, Science-Stakeholder Interaction Processes, Alfred-Wegener-Institute, Helmholtz Centre for Polar and Marine Research (AWI), Bremerhaven
- 2014–2016 Project scientist, Science for the Protection of Indonesian Coastal Ecosystems (SPICE), Leibniz Center for Tropical Marine Ecology (ZMT), Bremen
- 2013–2014 Lecturer, Institute of Geography, University of Bremen
- 2001–2002 Consultant – UNESCO, Environment and Development in Coastal Regions and Small Islands & Local and Indigenous Knowledge Systems, Paris (France)
- 1996–1997 Student Researcher, Alfred-Wegener-Institute for Polar and Marine Research (AWI)

Education:

- 10/2007 PhD, University of Newcastle upon Tyne, UK; University of the South Pacific, Fiji
Thesis title: An Interdisciplinary Appraisal of Community-based Marine Resource Management of a Traditional Fijian Fishing Ground (qoliqoli)
- 1997–2001 Studies at University of Bremen, Liverpool (Isle of Man, UK) & Hawai'i Institute of Marine Biology (Hawai'i, USA): Marine Biology, Physical Oceanography, Zoophysiology
- 1994–1996 Professional training as Biological-Technical-Assistant, Bremen, Germany

Main project:

- 2018–2022 'A Sea of Connections: Contextualizing Fisheries in the South Pacific Region' (SOCPacific), DFG/ANR Franco-German Call in Humanities and Social Sciences

Miscellaneous:

Integrated Marine Biosphere Research (IMBeR), Human Dimensions Working Group, Co-Chair
International Geographical Union (IGU), Commission on Islands, Vice-Chair
Associate Editor, Marine Conservation and Sustainability, Frontiers in Marine Science
Supervision (status May 2022): five PhD theses, two MSc theses
ORCID: 0000-0002-5976-4537
ZMT: Women's representative, Member of Scientific Council